

Expert Review Group

The Expert Review Group (ERG) is concerned with quality control in the Dispute Resolution Service (DRS) Expert decisions. Each fully reasoned decision will be reviewed by a member of the ERG before it is published. The ERG member will review the draft decision and provide feedback to the expert. However, the expert will remain responsible for the decision and will not be required to make any changes to the draft decision that they do not wish to make.

This helps make sure that decisions are consistent with the DRS Policy and Procedure and previous decisions. The ERG members are also responsible for forming the panel which hears appeal cases.

Why doesn't Nominet check the decisions?

We are neutral in the DRS and do not take a view on decisions. The Experts are independent, so it is better if they are self-regulating. However, in the rare cases where a complaint is received about an Expert or their decision, then we may raise that with the Chair of the Expert Review Group.

Who are the members of the Expert Review Group?

There are six members of the Expert Review Group:

- Anna Carboni
- Claire Milne
- David King
- Ian Lowe
- Nick Gardner
- Phillip Roberts

Anna Carboni

Occupation: Partner and Solicitor Advocate at Redd Solicitors LLP

Professional Experience

Anna has over 20 years' experience as an intellectual property lawyer. Qualified as both a solicitor and a barrister, she now practises as a Solicitor Advocate, focusing on intellectual property dispute resolution and advice.

With a broad client base spanning a wide range of industries and professions including pharmaceuticals, software, consumer electronics, food and drink, luxury goods, office products, entertainment and insurance, Anna's main focus is on litigation and advice connected with trade marks, designs, copyright, confidential information and associated contract issues.

Anna's past cases have taken her through the UK IPO, OHIM, the Patents County Court, High Court, Court of Appeal, the General Court and the Court of Justice of the European Union and have ranged from straightforward arguments through urgent ex parte applications, interim injunctions and multi-jurisdictional litigation, to complex appeals.

Anna has substantial advocacy expertise, having qualified as a Solicitor Advocate in 2000 and more recently spending seven years as an independent barrister. While she enjoys litigating, Anna is also an enthusiastic advocate of mediation in appropriate cases.

Anna has been on Nominet's Panel of Experts since 2004 and she joined the Expert Review Group in 2011.

1985 Bachelor of laws degree, University of Nottingham (1st class Honours)

Professional

1988 Admission as a Solicitor of the High Court in England

1994 Partner at Herbert Smith, Solicitors

2012 Independent Consultant

Professional Appointments/Memberships

Solicitor of the Senior Courts of England and Wales

Solicitor Advocate with rights of audience in all civil proceedings.

General

Nick Gardner practised as a lawyer with leading international law firm Herbert Smith LLP in London for over 25 years.

He was a partner in its intellectual property and technology practice for 18 years, latterly with 7 years as world wide head of the intellectual property group. Prior to joining Herbert Smith he obtained a first class honours degree in law from the University of Nottingham. Law was a second career for him having originally studied electrical engineering and then worked for a number of years in the computer business. His legal practice was predominately in the application of law to technology in the electronics, computing, telecommunications and internet areas, mainly but not exclusively in contentious disputes/litigation. He handled cases in the UK in the Patents Court, Patents County Court, Chancery Division of the High Court, Commercial Court, Data Protection Tribunal and the Court of Appeal.

He also has been extensively involved in proceedings in many other jurisdictions. In addition he had wide ranging arbitration and mediation experience. Amongst the many clients he acted for were such well known names as Amstrad, British Gas, BSkyB, the FIA, Harrods, IBM, Intel, the Motion Picture Association, Nokia, and Unilever.

He is an appointed expert by both Nominet and WIPO in respect of internet domain name disputes. In 2012 he retired from Herbert Smith to pursue a number of other interests including acting as an independent expert and mediator in respect of intellectual property and technology disputes.

David King

Occupation: Solicitor: Law Society Adjudicator

David is a solicitor (non-practising).

He was admitted in 1975 and spent the next 18 years in private practice before joining The Law Society in 1993. He was a departmental manager between 1994 and 1998 and then became a Senior Advisor in the Clients Relations Office (the predecessor of the Legal Complaints Service) which dealt with complaints about the service provided by solicitors and disputes regarding solicitors' costs under the Remuneration Certificates procedure.

In 2000 David was appointed as an Adjudicator and was responsible for making formal decisions on the outcome of service complaints against solicitors, Remuneration Certificates and conduct and regulatory matters for both the Solicitors' Regulation Authority and the Legal Complaints Service.

David has been a member of Nominet UK's Panel of Experts since its inception in 2001. In 2008 he became a member of Nominet's Expert Review Panel which reviews Experts' first instance decisions before they are published and deals with any appeals against those decisions.

In April 2011 he was appointed a member of a Law Society Appeal Panel which decides the final outcome of applications by solicitors' firms to join one of The Law Society's quality accreditation schemes.

Wide-ranging litigation experience, acting for both UK and international technology companies, brand owners, retailers and Internet investors.

Claire Milne

Occupation: Telecoms Consultant

Claire Milne is an experienced independent telecoms policy consultant, active both nationally and internationally. She has worked closely with UK consumer organisations and sat on a number of public bodies. She is involved with the internet as an enthusiastic user, consumer representative, and policy adviser. She has had a continuous close involvement since 1983 with UK telecoms regulation, and has a good general knowledge of relevant topics in many other countries, and especially of the evolving European scene. She is a Visiting Senior Fellow and Guest Teacher in the Department of Media and Communications at the London School of Economics.

Public bodies she has been involved with include the Essential Services Access Network (ESAN), a voluntary sector umbrella body concerned with the interests of low-income users of energy, water, communications and financial services; ICSTIS (now PhonepayPlus), the self-regulatory body for premium rate telephone information and entertainment services; the Internet Watch Foundation, which operates a hotline and take-down procedure for illegal material online; and the Telephone Helplines Association (now Helplines Partnership), a registered charity, which exists to provide quality and confidence for callers to helplines in the fields of health, education and social welfare. Helplines are increasingly turning to the internet to enhance their services to users.

Having previously been an independent member of Oftel's expert Numbering Advisory Group, she chaired Oftel's Working Group on the Use of Numbers, which advised Oftel on codifying and where necessary changing users' rights and responsibilities in numbers, including potential trading rights. She continued to work with Ofcom, the successor to Oftel, from 2008 to 2014 chairing the Consumer Forum for Communications.

Trading since 1992 as Antelope Consulting, she works flexibly as an independent expert, team member or project leader. Most of her recent consultancy focuses on policies to promote the availability of phone and internet service in remote areas of developing countries, and their affordability to all income groups.

Claire's university education was in Mathematics (Cambridge) and Statistics (Imperial College). She enjoys languages: her French and Italian remain serviceable, and she plans to revive her rusty Russian and Greek when the opportunity arises. Her children were born in 1984 and 1988. When family commitments allow, she likes to explore interesting places in person.
